ANDERSON, Ind., April 14. - Last Wednesday Oliver Songer and Miss Samantha Wright were married and went to visit the bride's mother, Mrs. Jennie Riley, who lives north of this city. Mrs. Riley, who is at times a raving maniac, took a great dislike to Songer, and, last night, while he was sleeping, she attacked him with a beer bottle. She was in a crazy frenzy, and before assistance could be called she had beaten him into insensibility, and the doctors are unable to bring him around. His skull is fractured, and his injuries will prove fatal. Mrs. Riley is raving to-day. She will be taken to the Richmond asylum. Mrs. Songer is prostrated from the shock, and it is doubtful if she will recover.

CONVICT SHOT BY PATTEN. Jeffersonville Warden has a Fight with an Insubordinate. Special to the Indianapolis Journal, JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., April 14 .- Warden James B. Patten, of the State Prison South at this place, shot an insubordinate convict at the prison late last evening. The man was Chafles Houstan, a notorious crook who served in the Colorado State prison prior to entering this institution. While employed in the brush factory yesterday he deliberately broke up some tools and refused to perform his work. He was sent to his cell, and as the prison rule requires any convict refusing to do his work to be handcuffed to the cell door until he becomes willing to do as ordered, three guards were sent to handcuff him. On arriving at his cell he was found armed with a huge billet of wood, and with this in his hand he threatened to kill any one who entered. One of the guards attempted to enter and was struck down. Captain Patten ordered him to lay down the club or be shot. The man answered only by curses. The warden then entered the cell and started toward the convict, who had retreated to the rear. Before he could strike the warden, as he attempted to do, Captain Patten fired at him, shooting him in the right arm between the wrist and elbow. This caused him to drop the club with a cry of pain, and he was quickly seized by the guards. Even then he fought

To this petition the Windfall Manufacturing Company filed a remonstrance The case was set down for hearing, and was tried by the Board of Commissioners at the June term of 1893, a finding being rendered in favor of the town and the annexation ordered. The remonstrants appealed, and the case was finally sent to the Hamilton Circuit Court. This mornthe jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff. The case has been stubbornly fought on both sides from start to finish, and has attracted a great deal of attention. The greater portion of the land embraced in the territory annexed belongs to corporate land companies, and was bought by them for factory sites. The result of the trial is a great victory for the town and the enterprising people of the place and vicinity.

W. Kittridge and S. T. Blizzard, superintendent of the Michigan division of the Big Four, spent a few hours in Anderson today. The party arrived on a special from the north, where they had been inspecting the road. Mr. Depew and Mr. Vanderbilt expressed a desire to witness the process of manufacturing window glass. The entire party was escorted to the North Anderson window glass factory, where the details were explained to the delighted spectators. Mr. Vanderbilt thought it was "a trifle un-comfortable," while the great after-dinner orator said: "It is simply marvelous, and the half of this greatest of all gas-belt industries has never been told. Why, if Indiana goes Republican this fall and the country is carried by the Republicans in 1896 and natural gas continues this will be the greatest manufacturing district in the

John Stuits's Ghost.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. WARSAW, Ind., April 14.-The old homestead of the widow of John Stults, situated near the Whitley county line, in Huntington county, is annoying the residents of that vicinity to a very great extent just now. Several months ago while Mrs. Stults was residing there strange lights would appear in the barn, flitting mysteriously about for a time and then suddenly disappear. So weird were these goings-on that Mrs. Stults moved away, taking up her residence with her daughter, and for a time the lights were not seen. Recently, however, these same mysterious visitations have been observed. They appear in the barn as before, and simultaneous with their disappearance there they are seen in every room of the old house, where they gleam brightly for a few moments and are no more. No one has yet mustered up sufficient courage to investigate the affair, and the denizens of that neighborhood now declare they have a band of ghosts in the neighborhood.

The Treasurer Was Robbed.

After three unsuccessful trials he at last won. Slout, Bies and Hicks, the defendants in the case, are very much depressed, not knowing where the matter will end, as there are other suits to follow. Clark Brown, who was Field's deputy, and who is charged with the crookedness, is a Quaker preacher, and has hitherto borne a good reputation.

FRAUD IN JACKSON COUNTY. Courthouse Ring Charged with Stealing the Primaries. Special to the Indianapolis Journal. SEYMOUR, Ind., April 14.-The Democratic party of Jackson county is all torn up to-night. Charges of alteration of tally sheets in favor of the courthouse ring are being openly made by leading members of the party. It is claimed that a majority of four in favor of Henry Bruning was changed into a majority of seven for John Dermett. It is also asserted (and a committeeman is authority for the statement) that a ballot-box was missing when the official count was commenced. The box, with the supposed altered tally sheets, was found in one of the county offices after a thorough search. 'The primary of Friday has engendered more bad feeling than any ever held in the county, and a great number vow that they will not support the ticket, but will vote the straight Republican ticket. The German Democrats, a power in this county, have again been ignored and are sore. The primary was a great surprise to all, as it was expected that Jason Brown would carry the county by a large majority. Late last night, as the returns were coming in, Brown and his friends gave up the fight. This morning the majorities by which Stockslager carried eight out of eleven townships, was not large enough to overcome the vote in the city. Brown only carried two townships in the county-Jackson, by 265, and Driftwood, by ten, making 275. In Vernon township the vote was a tle between the two canmajority of forty-seven. This is virtually a defeat for him in his own county, and will have its influence in the counties yet to vote. The Brown men are feeling very blue. The following are the men nominated: David Ellison, joint Senator; Allen Swope, Representative; J. D. Dermett, auditor; O. Brooks, recorder. The rest of the ticket had no opposition. The Republicans, by selecting good men, can defeat the entire Democratic ticket. The total vote cast was 2,294

The courthouse was too small to accommodate the crowd, which necessitated adjournment to the opera house. Dr. S. B. Town, of College-avenue M. E. The following ticket was nominated by acclamation: Representative, George W. Hanna; clerk, John D. Hunt; treasurer, O. H. Shepherd; auditor, James McD. Hays; sheriff, Daniel W. Macy; recorder, Lemuel Johns; surveyor, Larry Downs; coroner, John T. Owen; commissioners, first district, John L. Bridges; second district, James C. Reet. The convention declared its preference for Charles B. Case for Congress, Thomas Hanna for Attorney-general and W. S. Blatchley for State Geologist. James W. Watson, candidate for Secretary of State, addressed the convention. He spoke of the marked contrast between the grand gathering of to-day and the meager attendance on Republican conventions in the rock-ribbed Democratic county when he was a student at DePauw University. Mr. Wtason's speech was well received. Delegates to the several conventions were appointed as follows: State-Frank Hall, James T. Hanna, John Burnsides, Dr. Moore, H. C. Darnell, Elijah Walls, G. E. Read Out of Politics in Fort Wayne. Special to the Indianapolis Journal. FORT WAYNE, Ind., April 14.-Never before in the history of Fort Wayne Democracy has there been such condemnation within their own party as is now going on by reason of the methods used last Saturday at the primaries to count Shambaugh in as the mayoralty nominee. Even ex-Senator Sarninghausen, of the Staats Zeitung, and E. A. K. Hackett, of the Sentinel, denounce the Democratic central committee and demand that they be retired and a new committee formed. The Zeitung charges that "dishonest votes were cast and accepted by the dozens in Shambaugh's favor. The boards of election were

He was made first lieutenant in 1855, but soon resigned from the service and returned to New York to practice law at Syracuse. He was in the State Legislature in 1859. At the breaking out of the civil war he tendered his services and became colonel of the Twentyseventh New York Volunteers, inMay, 1861. He was severely wounded at Bull Run in July, and in August was commissioned brigadier general of volunteers and assigned to the Army of the Potomac. He succeeded Gen. William B. Franklin in the command of the division in May, 1862, after the siege of Yorktown. With his division he reinforced Fitz-John Porter at Gaines's Mills and rendered important service at Glendale and Malvern Hill later on. He was promoted to the rank of ma jor general of volunteers in July, and engaged in the second battle of Bull Run. He was in the battles of South Mountain, Antietam, Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville and Gettysburg, commanding the right wing of the army at the latter place. He was transferred with his command and served in the Army of the Cumberland until April, 1864, when his corps was consolidated with the Eleventh, and he was assigned to the command of a division at Vicksburg. He succeeded Gen. Joseph Hooker in command of the Twentieth Corps in August, 1864, and led the first body of troops into Atlanta on Sept. 2 of that year. SENATOR Z. B. VANCE.

Demise of a Popular Southern War Governor and Fighter. WASHINGTON, April 14.-Senator Vance, of North Carolina, died at his home, 1726 Massachusetts avenue, in this city, at 10:40 o'clock to-night, from a stroke of apoplexy. He had been suffering for some time from paralysis and a complication of diseases, but the end was sudden and unexpected, as he was regaining his health, and it was thought he was on the road to recovery.

He was compelled during the winter to leave the Senate and go to Florida. Here he grew somewhat better, and, in view of the struggle over the tariff, he returned to Washington. He was a member of the committee on finance, but took little or no part in framing the present tariff bill. The stroke of apoplexy which ended in death was felt about 10 o'clock this morning, while the Senator was talking with his last son. He had been in a state of coma all day. His last appearance in the Senate was eight weeks ago. Funeral services will take place at 2 p. m., next Tuesday, from the Senator's late home at Black Mountain, N. C., whither his body will be taken from here Monday night. Zebulon Baird Vance was born near Asheville, Buncombe county, North Carolina, on the 13th of May, 1830. He was educated at Washington College, Tennessee, and the University of North Carolina. He studied preme Court of the State, and the Hon. Sampel F. Phillips, ex-Solicitor-general of the United States, and obtained a license in 1853. He was elected county attorney, then to the House of Commons from Buncombe county in 1854, to Congress in 1858 from the Eighth district to fill an unexpired term and re-elected in 1859. He was opposed to secession, but went with his State into the war, as captain of the Twentysixth Regiment of North Carolina troops in 1861 and was promoted to be colonel in September of the same year, and served at the battle of New Berne and during the seven days' fighting around Richmond in 1862. In the same year he was elected Governor of North Carolina while in the trenches around Petersburg, and was reelected in 1864 by a majority of more than 45,000. He has been known in the South as the war Governor. After the surrender he was imprisoned in the old Carroll prison for several months with three other Southern Governors, being re-leased July 7, 1885. He returned to North Carolina and practiced law, taking an active part in politics, though disfranchised. He was nominated for Governor in 1868, for the third time, but declined, and was elected Senator in 1870, but, being under lisabilities, was refused admission. In 1876 he was elected Governor for the third time. In 1878 he was again elected Senator for the term expiring March 4, 1885, and in January of that year was re-elected, and again re-elected in 1891. He was said to be the most popular man in the South. In his own State he is called "North Carolina's idol from Cherokee to Currituck.' He had been married twice: in 1853 to Miss Harriet Espy, of Morgantown, N. C., who left four sons, now living, and in 1880 he married Mrs. Florence Steele Martin, of

AN "ARMY" DRENCHED.

The Hose Turned on Soldiers Who Had Captured a Train. SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., April 14.-At a meeting of citizens a committee was appointed to organize a company of 100 men to protect the city against the army of the unemployed camped here. Captain Vinette and others arrested were released from jail on the understanding that they would move out of the city with the whole army, which numbers about four hundred. While the citizens were holding their meeting the "soldiers" quietly packed their blankets and, breaking camp, started out toward Colton, where they attempted to capture a train on the Southern Pacific. This morning the courthouse bell sounded an alarm here and a shotgun brigade of fifty men took the 8-o'clock train for Colton, where they found the "army" in possession of freight train. The engineer had side-tracked his train and refused to hal the men. The sheriff ordered the "soldiers" to get off the cars, which command they refused to obey. The town hose cart was then drawn out and water from the city water works was turned on the men, drenching them to the skin. They stood their ground, however, and did not move until the entire army was placed under Captain Vinnette and several of his lieutenants were then placed on a motor, preparatory to taking them to the county jail. At this juncture it was agreed to take Captain Vinette and his lieutenants back to the men if they would agree to maych out and the county. Captain Vinette took a vote of the army on the question of marching out. To a man they refused to do so unless they could ride on the cars. The sheriff and his posse still have the army under guard. Kelly's Industrial Army. OMAHA, Neb., April 14.-Kelly's industrial army of the occident took supper tonight at Chapman Siding, fifteen miles west of Grand Island and 140 miles west of Omaha. At Kearney two hundred pounds of sugar was donated to the commissary department, law with the late Judge Battle, of the Su- and at Grand Island crackers, pork and beans, bread, cheese, bacon, coffee and bologna. The train will be brought to Sheely's Siding, two miles west of Omaha, where breakfast will be served, including 2.500 loaves of bread, 1,200 pounds of beef and 1,000 pies furnished by the City Council. An effort will be made to have the army hurried across the river. Jones's Hobos Arrested.

WILMINGTON, Del., April 14.-Christopher Columbus Jones's soldiers, numbering sixty-one, breakfasted on bean soup and bread. Jones and his lieutenants were told by the Mayor that they must move on with their army, but Jones replied that they were outside the city and beyond the Mayor's jurisdiction. The State authoritles then notified Jones that he must break camp at 2 o'clock and make a bee-line for Maryland. Upon a second refusal to move on the police began making arrests. Half of the army thereupon deserted. The rest, including Commander Jones, were loaded into patrol wagons and taken to the police station. Later in the day they agreed to leave the city and were released.

A "Hearing" Committee Proposed. WASHINGTON, April 14.—Senator Peffer to-day introduced an amendment in the Senate providing for the creation of new committee of the Senate to receive the petitions and hear the statements of bodies of men, like Coxey's army, who visit the Capitol for the purpose of making presentations to Congress. Senator Hoar gave notice that when the resolution should be taken up for consideration he would move to amend by imposing this duty on the committee on ADVENTURE OF A CAT. It Has an Experience on a Dumb Waiter Which It Will Not Repeat.

New York Sun.

Mr. David Baillie, formerly of Edinburgh, has two Maltese cats, Punch and Dynamite. Dynamite, as might be inferred from his name, is alert and acrobatic. Punch has a soporific temperament, and spends most of his time finding soft and cozy places and lying in them. Mr. Baillie, who speaks Maltese almost as well as he does Gaelic, and is therefore somewhat familiar with the emotions of the cats, says they are the most remarkable pair of felines in New York. Other folks with animal pets and babies have been known to express the same sentiment about them.

Since an adventure several weeks ago Punch has not been so sleepy as he used to be. He saw the door of the dumb wa shaft open, with the waiter itself, looking boy. That was about an hour before day-light. An early and vigorous butcher boy came into the basement and gave the dumb waiter rope a yank that startled Punch out of his slumber and set him quivering with fear as the dumb waiter bumped and rattled down the shaft. Punch was never so wide awake in his life. He had gone down three floors, or from the fifth to the second, when he noticed a stream of light. It came from the open shaft door of the kitchen on the second floor. Punch made a blind, wild leap for the light. It happened that an Irish servant girl was sitting on a chair with her back to the dumb waiter wiping the sleep out of her eyes. Punch did not see her when he made his frantic leap for liberty. He landed in her back hair, and she emitted a yell that frightened Punch more than his experience in the dumb waiter. He let go the girl's nair in a jiffy and dashed through the flat like a mad cat, waking everybody in his flight. When he reached the parlor he crouched in a corner and waited for developments. As the house did not tumble down he began to recover his composure and to meditate on the uncertainty of dumb waiters and servant girls. He was discovered later in the morning by the mistress of the flat, who recognized him as one of Mr. Baillie's Maltese pets and sent him upstairs. Punch cannot be persuaded now to go near the dumb waiter. When he hears the grocer boy or the butcher boy rattling the rope he retires to the parlor. He is now very careful about the places he selects to take a nap in.

BURIED GOLD AND WHISKY. Mystery of an Oregon Farm on Which Treasures Are Hidden.

Portland Oregonian. W. K. Smith, of this city, owns a farm of some three hundred acres on the west shore of Sauvie's Island, on which there is said to be a treasure of $100,000 burled, and alongside of it a big trunk full of bottles of whisky. The particulars in regard to the matter were learned from Mr. Smith himself, a few days ago, on the steamer Kel-

During the past winter, Mr. Smith stated, some parties had been boring holes all over his farm in search of a treasure buried there. The work had been done by night, and the neighboring farmers had seen the lanterns flitting around the place and mistaken them for ignes fatui. The treasure, which is by some said to be in a trunk, and by others in tin cans, was buried there back in the sixties by a stranger, who afterwards had the misfortune to get in the State penitentiary, and the further misfortune to drop dead of heart disease in a hotel in this city soon after getting out of prison, and before he had time to recover the gold, which is mostly in fifty-dollar slugs. While in the penitentiary this unfortunate man revealed the secret of his treasure to his cellmate, and also furnished him with a rude map of the ground, intended to show where the treasure is located, the bearings of certain trees, etc., being given as witness marks. This map does not appear to be definite enough, as the fellows have been boring all over the place till it begins to look like a big pepper box.

When asked why he had made no effort to recover this treasure himself Mr. Smith intimated that he had not been in any need of the money, and as for the trunkful of whisky, it was improving with age, and would keep the best where it is. The holes bored, he said, are eight inches in diameter and twenty feet in depth. He has not decided whether he will fill them with mold and raise a lot of prize parsnips and horseradish for the next exposition or whether he will have them pulled up and welded into one deep artesian well. He thinks the fellows have bored enough holes to thoroughly ventiliate his farm, and he intends to get the idea conveyed to them that the treasure is buried under a tree or stump, and expects thus to get all the timber cleared off his place, which he intends soon to have all under cultivation.

District of Columbia Laws. W. E. Curtis, in Chicago Record We are governed here by the old colonial laws of Maryland, under which the court can even now punish a woman for gossiping or telling tales to her neighbors or falling to keep her house neat and clean. The district attorney might prosecute even Mrs. Cleveland for scolding her husband or wearing an untidy dress. The law prohibits planters from feeding their workmen terrapin and canvas-back duck and requires that housekeepers shall give their servants wholesome food. People can be fined so many pounds of tobacco for swearing on the streets or for not attending church. At the time those laws were made all men were honest and upright and the fashion of jury-fixing was unknown.
